

JURY IN HILL CASE FAILED TO AGREE

Defendant Charged With Having Sold Whiskey When He Knew Customer Was Habitual User.

LIQUOR WAS SOLD AT EWING

John Fourdice Makes Alleged Purchase and Gives Whiskey to John Cox.

The jury in the case of the state against Sherman Hill in which the defendant was charged with an alleged violation of the liquor laws, was dismissed late Tuesday evening after having been in deliberation for several hours. The affidavit charged Hill, who is a druggist at Ewing, with having sold a quart of whiskey to John Fourdice, of Brownstown, who he knew to be an habitual user of intoxicants.

Fourdice, it is alleged, went to the drug store and purchased a quart of whiskey, having signed the proper application that the liquor was to be used for scientific, medical or educational purposes. When he left the store he met Thomas Cox, to whom some of the liquor was given and who became intoxicated. He was arrested, but later agreed to tell where he got the whiskey if released. This the prosecutor agreed to do and in the trial Cox was the prosecuting witness.

It was brought out in the evidence that Fourdice had not been intoxicated and that he came to Seymour that evening and went to Cortland on a visit. He said he met a policeman here with whom he talked for some time. It was brought out during the trial that Fourdice became intoxicated occasionally, but some of the jury men did not believe that the fact was sufficiently established that he was generally known as an habitual drunkard.

This case is the first time that the right of a druggist to sell liquor has been presented in the circuit court and had been given much attention.

WANTED—A SHERLOCK HOLMES

To Discover the Names of the Couple Married at the New Lynn.

On Monday evening as the twilight was fading into night, a "tall, dark complexioned gentleman" clothed as a clergyman, stopped into the main entrance of the New Lynn and after looking about the lobby as if in search of someone whom he expected to meet, walked stealthily to the desk, and in a low voice said that if any one should call for him he would be ready to answer the summons. The stranger then disappeared without further explanation, but in a few minutes appeared again accompanied by a nervous young man and a blushing, winsome young lady, and asked if they might be permitted to remain in the hotel parlor until the north bound Pennsylvania train was due. Their request was granted by the obliging clerk who thought no more of the guests.

In a short time, however, one of the employees passed through the hallway adjoining the parlor and was surprised to hear a man pronouncing a wedding ceremony in a deep, low but sonorous voice. Soon the trio came from the parlor and disappeared. Who they were, from whence they came and whither they went, no one knows. Evidently they did not desire their friends to know of the wedding and took this means to escape the publicity. After the ceremony and the license was duly and truly signed, Mr. and Mrs. What Ever Their Name Might Be went north on the Pennsylvania.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION.

Candidate for Prosecutor Will be Nominated Saturday.

The Republicans of Scott and Jackson counties will meet in delegate convention in Scottsburg next Saturday morning at 11 o'clock to nominate a candidate for prosecutor. Chairman Masters, of the county committee, urges all the delegates and as many other Republicans as can arrange to do so to attend the convention.

J. A. Cox, of Crothersville, is spoken of for the nomination and will probably be elected. In the afternoon Senator A. J. Beveridge will speak in Scottsburg and this will give those who attend the convention an opportunity to hear him.

Accepts Good Position.

Roger M. Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Craig, of West Reddingtown, has been selected to teach Latin in the high school at Crothersville, which begins Oct. 3. Mr. Craig graduated with first honors with the class of 1908 from the Seymour High school and has been attending the University at Bloomington for the past two years.

Surprised.

Mrs. John Van Osdol was given a very pleasant surprise Tuesday evening at her home on West Second street by about twenty of her friends, in honor of her twenty-fourth birthday anniversary. The evening was spent in various games and amusements. Refreshments were served.

REDDING TOWNSHIP SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Will Hold Annual Convention at Ebenezer Baptist Church Saturday, October 8.

STRONG PROGRAM ARRANGED

Subjects Will Be Discussed, Which Are of Especial Interest to Township Sunday Schools.

The annual Redding township Sunday School Convention will be held Saturday, October 8, at the Ebenezer Baptist Church, and the committee is expecting a large number of delegates and visitors to attend. All the Sunday schools in the township will be represented in the convention. There will be two sessions, the one in the morning convening at 9 o'clock and in the afternoon at 1 o'clock. At noon a dinner will be served at the church.

A strong program will be given and many subjects of interest to Sunday school workers will be discussed. The program committee has made an effort to have those questions presented which are of interest to township schools, although the general Sunday school work will be given some consideration.

A number of persons from Seymour and this township will attend the convention.

The program as arranged is as follows:

SOUTHERN INDIANA IS ORDERED SOLD

Properties Will Be Offered at Public Auction at Terre Haute November 3.

ORDER OF FEDERAL COURT

Understood that Bondholders Will Organize New Company With M. J. Carpenter as President.

Notice has been given by Edward Daniels, Master of Chancery, that the properties of the Southern Indiana railroad company will be sold at public auction at Terre Haute on Thursday, November 3. The sale will be made between 12 and 1 o'clock. The notice is given pursuant to the order of the United States Circuit court which was given some time ago. At the sale all the divisions of the road will be sold, including the main branch from Terre Haute to Westport, the Sullivan branch and the Chicago Southern Railroad which was built by the former owner, John R. Walsh.

It has been expected for some time that the property would be sold. No announcement is made as to who will offer bids for the properties but it is thought that the present bondholders will take the roads in and reorganize a new company. It is also said that several other railroad companies would like to purchase the road as it furnishes a good outlet from the coal and stone quarries which would be valuable to any of the connecting lines.

Some time ago M. J. Carpenter was appointed receiver for the line and under his management the company has been very prosperous. The traffic in both passenger and freight departments is heavier than ever before and the road is handicapped in transferring shipments on account of the shortage of cars. It has been reported for some time that if the present bondholders secure control of the road they will immediately order new cars and engines, and authorize many improvements all along the system. Very little money has been expended in repairs and improvements during the past eighteen months and as a result there are many places in which a large amount of money could be expended with good results.

The company went into the hands of a receiver about the time of the failure of the Walsh bank at Chicago, and since that time the former owner, John R. Walsh, has had no control whatever over the system. The shortage which the bank examiners found when they investigated the affairs of his bank and trust company was so large that all of Walsh's property was taken to satisfy the claims of the creditors. None of the depositors, however, in either the bank or trust company were losers by the failure of the banking institutions. Walsh was sent to the federal prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., and is now serving his sentence. A move has been made, however, to secure his pardon, and the majority of the people who were affected by the failure of the banks, have signed the petition for his release.

Until the road is sold as ordered by the court, M. J. Carpenter will continue as receiver. It is understood that he will be elected president of the new company as soon as it is organized.

VETERAN ENGINEER

After Seymour Wreck Decided to Retire at Once.

James McGregor, of Jeffersonville, the veteran Pennsylvania engineer, has retired from the service a short time before he intended to. McGregor, after over half a century in railroading, had intended to quit the last of the month. He was eligible for retirement some time ago, but asked to be allowed to continue awhile and his request was granted.

But the wreck in Seymour last Friday morning in which McGregor's train ran into a B. & O. S-W. freight at the crossing, caused him to change his mind.

He was driving a strange engine, No. 13, from the Vandalia at the time and the circumstances were such that he was not blamed for the collision.

However, McGregor went to Superintendent Kron, at Louisville, so railroad men say, and offered to resign at once. Superintendent Kron knew of his long service with the company and his wish to continue through the month. He declared that the company would not hold him responsible for the Seymour wreck, it is said, and told him to resume his run. But No. 13 had got in her work, and McGregor insisted on quitting then. His request was finally granted and he was placed on the retired list, one of the few engineers on the division to get a pension from the company.

McGregor has had a head for business as well as for railroading. He has accumulated some property in Jeffersonville and his pension from the railroad company will be sufficient for all his needs. He has quit railroading for all time, but his friends say before many days he will be around the yards at Jeffersonville and Louisville, riding an engine now and then and taking the throttle for the time being just to feel an engine move under him once more.

BEVERIDGE GOES TO PLAIN PEOPLE

Demands That Political Parties Shall Measure Up to Present Public Thought.

STANDS FOR ROOSEVELTISM

Appeals to All Voters to Act for Common Welfare, to Put Citizenship Above Partisanship.

Declaring that intelligent Democrats and Republicans alike "refuse longer to be unquestioning burden-bearers of partisan slave-drivers" and that while "hospitality to righteous ideas is the life of political parties, intolerance of ideas is the death of parties," Senator Beveridge made his opening appeal to the voters at Tomlinson hall, Indianapolis, Tuesday night. "I appeal to the people. This is your fight," sums the significance of the speech.

The great crowd which greeted Senator Beveridge showed tremendous enthusiasm. His fiery eloquence swept the thousands to their feet and time after time he was answered by demonstrations of remarkable force and fervor.

His speech opening the campaign ranks well with the best efforts of the Indiana senator's career. In part he said:

"I appeal to the people. This is your fight. Many politicians would have this campaign a mere partisan struggle for office. It shall not be. The old order changeth, giving place to that which is new. This is a day of such a change.

"Intelligent Democrats and Republicans alike refuse longer to be unquestioning burden-bearers of partisan slave-drivers.

"Democrats and Republicans alike are asking what is best for their firesides and their country.

"The period of unthinking partisanship has passed—the period of thinking citizenship has arrived.

Truth Means Life.

"Political parties today must measure up to the higher standard of present public thought. Hospitality to righteous ideas is the life of political parties; intolerance of ideas their death.

"A party can live only by growing, and it can grow only by deserving the approval of men in whom citizenship is stronger than partisanship.

"Condemned by the bosses but commissioned by the voters, the Lincoln spirit is in command of the Republican party today.

"For the sake of the nation I earnestly wish that this were true of the cabal of old-time politicians calling themselves the Democratic party. But it is not. These men cry the old-time catch-words, practice the worn-out partisan methods. The whole present day tendency among Democratic politicians is reactionary.

Where Hope Lies Today.

"Ask yourself if the only hopeful movement in American public life is not progressive Republicanism.

"The Republican party was the result of the historic progressive movement of the heroic 'sixties, just as the revolution was the result of the progressive movement that made us a nation. It is the same movement that is working out the purpose of the American millions today. And it appeals to the righteous firesides of a free people rather than to the dark rooms of party bosses.

"We appeal to all citizens in the

VICTORY FOR THE DEFENSE

Lorimer Lawyer Scores One In Senate Hearing.

HEARSAY EVIDENCE IS BARRED

After Lengthy Arguments Pro and Con, Senatorial Investigating Committee Which Is Inquiring Into the Lorimer Bribery Charges Decided That Only Direct Statements Could Go In.—White Tells What He Got for Story.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—The senatorial investigating committee which is inquiring into the Lorimer election, permanently decided to hear no hearsay evidence as to bribery charges, but to allow only direct statements to go into the record. The decision was announced by Chairman Burrows after lengthy arguments by Attorneys Alfred S. Austrian and Elbridge Haney and after the chairman had cited the case of Senator Spencer of Alabama, whose election was investigated on the same ground some years ago. The ruling is a victory for the defense.

Legislator White was recalled to the stand. "After getting the money from Browne in Chicago, did you show it to anyone?" asked Austrian.

"I object," interjected Haney. "That's the very point we've been debating. They want to corroborate White's testimony by his own statements."

After consultation the committee sustained the objection.

"When did you write up your experiences in the Forty-sixth general assembly—at the conclusion of the assembly?" was the next question.

This, too, was objected to by Haney on the ground that it was immaterial. On this likewise he was sustained by the committee.

White was allowed to tell, however, of the terms under which his statement was printed in the Tribune. He said that he first submitted the manuscript to Doubleday, Page & Co., Ridgeway's and the Kerr Publishing company, by all of whom it was rejected.

He then took it to the Tribune, which agreed to publish it, according to a letter signed by the managing editor, James Keeley, and produced in court, the consideration to be $3,250, $1,250 of which was to be paid upon publishing the story, $1,000 in thirty days and $1,000 in sixty days.

President Puts Thousands of Assistant Postmasters on Civil List.

Washington, Sept. 28.—President Taft today gave certain evidence of his desire to remove the postoffice department from the field of politics by signing an executive order which will put between 7,000 and 8,000 assistant postmasters of money-order offices in the civil list. This will be followed by a recommendation to congress for legislation that will put all second- and third-class postmasters under civil service protection.

NO RECONCILIATION

Howard Chandler Christy and Wife Are Still Far Apart.

HOMES WERE RIDDLED BY BRISK FUSILADE

Bad Outbreak in Pennsylvania Mining Town.

Irwin, Pa., Sept. 28.—A gang of men, evidently striking miners, armed with rifles, fired over 100 shots into the sleeping rooms in the homes of Superintendent Levi Good and John Olsen, mine foreman, of the Pennsylvania Gas and Coal company at Claridge, a mining town, about six miles from this place.

None of the occupants of either house was injured, although the panes in the windows in the sleeping rooms were shot out and the mirrors in the rooms shattered. A detachment of troopers from the state constabulary were hurried to the scene of the shooting.

In the home of Superintendent Good, Mrs. Good and four children were sleeping in the rooms on the second floor. Good and his wife were awakened by bullets crashing through the windows. Good realized that an attack was being made on his family, and he got his wife and children to lie on the floor until the shooting ceased, when he hurried with them to the cellar. The Olsen family also found safety in the cellar. Both houses were wrecked by the bullets. No arrests have been made. While the home of Good was being stormed with bullets, an attack was made on the home of Foreman Olsen. In the sleeping rooms of this house were Mrs. Olsen and seven children.

LOCKED UP

Mutinous Cadets Are Still Deprived of Their Liberty.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Major General Thomas H. Barry, superintendent of the academy, has returned from Washington. When asked about the investigation of the mutiny of the cadet corps, he emphatically declared he had nothing to say. Asked if Colonel Sibley's order confining the cadets to their quarters before and after studies would remain in force, he said that Sibley might answer that. It is not improbable that Colonel Sibley's order will stand until the week end, at any rate. This will prohibit the football squad from their customary daily practice, and the games scheduled for Saturday with the University of Virginia may be cancelled.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES

A Woman Finds All Her Energy And Ambition Slipping Away.

Seymour women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Seymour woman's words:

Mrs. D. B. Henderson, 523 Indianapolis Avenue, Seymour, Ind., says: "I do not know what I would have done had it not been for Doan's Kidney Pills. My back pained me all the time and there was an extreme lameness through my loins and kidneys that inconvenienced me greatly. I also had pains in my head. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a supply and the use of four boxes not only removed the pain and lameness, but restored my strength and energy."

Needs No Lightning Rod.

A building 9,000 feet above sea level should be protected by lightning rods, one thinks, but the astronomical observatory at Mount Etna has not and does not need such protection. The observatory is near the summit of the volcano, and the stream of vapor constantly rising from the crater acts as a natural conductor, draining the electricity out of the clouds, so that lightning is seldom seen there.

Saved a Soldier's Life.

Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what the doctors said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed a cough that stuck to me in spite of all remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. I now weigh 178 pounds." HINSHAW AGAIN SEEKING PAROLE

Wife Murderer's Case Before the Pardon Board.

HE WANTS A SECOND CHANCE

Preacher Convict Who Was Once Paroled and Sent Back to Prison for a Gross Violation of His Parole, Has Appealed to the Board for Another Opportunity—Case Is Taking Its Regular Course.

Indianapolis, Sept. 28.—William E. Hinshaw, the minister who was sent to prison for life for having killed his wife at Belleville, about ten years ago, and who was paroled and subsequently reincarcerated for violation of the conditions of his parole, has appealed to the state board of pardons for a second parole, and his case will be heard during the present sitting which is in progress at the statehouse.

The Hinshaw case will take the regular course of cases before the board. Governor Marshall said he would adhere to the policy adopted by him when he became governor, and would not take any part in the consideration or investigation of the case.

"If there are any persons who are opposed to the release of Hinshaw," said the governor, "now is the time for them to place their objections before the pardon board. In this case, as in all others, I shall abide by the recommendations of the board."

Hinshaw was paroled as the last official act of Winfield T. Durbin when he turned the executive office over to J. Frank Hanly in January, 1905. The minister was out of prison about six months when he became involved in an affair with a woman at Wabash and was sent back.

Bader and the commissioners were charged with having altered a public document by raising a bridge bid from $1,240 to $1,400, at which figure the contract was awarded Bader's company.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE

Came Near Proving Serious For a Gypsy at Bloomfield.

Bloomfield, Ind., Sept. 28.—Henry Switz was approached by a gypsy who wanted to tell his fortune. He refused and a few minutes later missed his gold watch. The gypsy was arrested and tried, and just as the jury was about to bring in a verdict of guilty Switz reported to the court that he had found his watch. It seems that he was not wearing the watch when the woman offered to tell his fortune.

Taking Their Time to It.

Indianapolis, Sept. 28.—Word has been received by Governor Marshall that the board of control of the state prison at Michigan City, in its business meeting at the prison Monday afternoon, postponed any action looking toward the election of a successor to the late warden, James D. Reid, until the regular meeting in January.

Chute & Butler PIANOS

Every Note Rings Pure, Sweet and True

The tone of the CHUTE & BUTLER Piano is one of surprising beauty; round, rich, full and true. It has that sweet singing tone quality that is desired and appreciated by all musically inclined people. This tone is the result of their specially constructed sounding board, full length plate, the use of the best imported music wire and German felt, together with the best material throughout. The action of the CHUTE & BUTLER Piano is delightful—even and responsive. The design is original and artistic; in fact, it is as perfect a Piano as is possible to make—30 years of experience is built into it. It delights the ear, pleases the eye and satisfies the touch of the most critical. Call in—hear and see it for yourself. STEINWELDE MUSIC CO., Seymour, Ind.

Plumbing Progress

What distinguishes the modern house of to-day from the homes of ten and twenty years ago? Not the architectural changes; the number of rooms nor their size. The change that marks the progress of the years is most evident in the plumbing of the home. Modern fixtures and open plumbing, conforming to sanitary laws and contributing to good health, are the most noteworthy improvements in house-building.

We are modern plumbers. The work we do, whether repairing a pipe or installing a complete bath room is high grade and finished.

We sell and install "Standard" Porcelain Enameled plumbing fixtures and the fame of these widely advertised goods assures you high quality. The guaranteed excellence of "Standard" Ware is backed by our own reputation for handling only the best. Illustrated booklet "Modern Home Plumbing" free.

THE COLONEL IS THE NEW LEADER

New York Republicans So Nominate Him.

THE DEFEAT OF MR. SHERMAN

Amid Scenes Such as Were Never Before Witnessed in a New York State Republican Convention, Theodore Roosevelt Was Elected Chairman—He at Once Proceeded to Crowd Foes Off All Committees.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt of Oyster Bay defeated in the Republican state convention Vice President Sherman of Utica for the temporary chairmanship. The vote was 567 to 445. There were 1,015 delegates in the convention, but three did not vote—Colonel Roosevelt, Vice President Sherman and Gilchrist Stuart of New York city.

A total vote of 508 was necessary to a choice, and the result shows that Colonel Roosevelt had 59 majority and 122 plurality over Sherman. The old guard leaders, headed by William Barnes, jr., Speaker J. W. Wadsworth and their friends, said that they were not at all dismayed, not at all overcome by Colonel Roosevelt's victory and Barnes and Speaker Wadsworth said that the 445 delegates who stood up against Colonel Roosevelt and his friends did so from principle.

Colonel Roosevelt's selection was followed later in the convention proceedings by performances which were without precedent in New York Republican conventions since the organization of the party. After Colonel Roosevelt's victory no delegate representing the old guard forces was permitted to offer the resolutions calling for the appointment of committees. Only delegates friendly to Roosevelt and his adherents offered the resolutions for the appointment of a committee, and these delegates introduced their resolutions for the committee with this final clause: "and that the temporary chairman of this convention have authority to name the committees," meaning the committee on credentials, the committee on rules, the committee on permanent organization and the committee on platform.

Colonel Roosevelt celebrated the unlimited power given to him by first striking at Vice President Sherman. The Oneida-Herkimer delegation, the vice president's own delegation, had recommended for the platform committee William H. Schweitzer, a Sherman follower. Colonel Roosevelt struck out Schweitzer's name and substituted that of ex-Assemblyman Merwin K. Hart, head of the Lincoln League of Oneida county, which has supported Davenport. Roosevelt, following this stroke, displaced Timothy Woodruff from the committee on platform and put in the name of Comptroller W. A. Prendergast, and for Jacob A. Livingston of Kings, Colonel Roosevelt put Marcus B. Campbell. As temporary chairman of the convention Roosevelt then took a hand in smashing President Cromwell of the borough of Richmond, who had been recommended for a place on the committee on platform, and in Mr. Cromwell's place Roosevelt substituted Senator Josiah T. Newcomb. Mr. Cromwell, Mr. Livingston, Mr. Woodruff and Daniel F. Strobel, state committeeman for the Oneida-Herkimer district, had voted in the state committee for Mr. Sherman to be temporary chairman of the convention. Colonel Roosevelt and his friends adopted these drastic measures because they lacked the necessary votes to control the committee on platform.

William Barnes, jr., in the presence of Speaker Wadsworth and a great throng of the delegates who had opposed Colonel Roosevelt, dictated a statement after the convention in which he said: "That Mr. Roosevelt was opposed for temporary chairman for good and sufficient reasons has been made entirely clear by the outcome. His action in leaving off the committee on resolutions delegates chosen by the delegations from their congressional districts to sit upon that committee, using a prerogative never before exercised, is the proof. Especially is the vindictiveness and disorderly quality exhibited in substituting for the man agreed upon by the delegation from the Twenty-seventh congressional district, comprising the counties of Oneida and Herkimer, in which Vice President Sherman lives."

When the session was called to order there was not standing room on the floor or in the gallery. When Roosevelt came down the aisle of the hall he was greeted with riotous cheers. Then came Vice President Sherman and the scene was repeated. Senator Root and Senator Dewey got a greeting, not too demonstrative. The aisles were choked, thousands of visitors trampled over the delegates and alternates, and the modest police force of Saratoga, consisting of two meek-eyed policemen, went down before that army like chips before a cyclone. At last Secretary Glasen got an opportunity to read the call for the convention and Chairman Woodruff announced that by direction of the committee the selection of Mr. Sherman to be temporary chairman of the convention had been recommended. Then followed a speech by Mr. Woodruff in which he told of recent events in his party. All the way through Woodruff's speech was heartily responded to by the vast audience. When he read the correspondence between Roosevelt and himself concerning the selection by the committee of Sherman there were cheers and hisses.

"BOSS" BARNES

His Machine Crumbled Beneath Roosevelt Onslaught.

© 1910, by American Press Association.

The thunderous applause which greeted Mr. Sherman's name as Chairman Woodruff uttered it in his final sentences had not died away before Frederick Hicks, a Nassau county delegate, jumped upon his chair, and, facing the great audience, cried: "In the spirit expressed by Lincoln half a century ago, with charity to all, with malice toward none, I nominate the honorable Theodore Roosevelt." The old guard kept their seats, but the Roosevelt-Griscom delegates and the galleries burst out with volcanic explosions.

After several speeches in favor of the respective nominees, Chairman Woodruff announced that the roll would be called for vote of individual delegates, and Barnes insisted on the individual vote. The call went on amid the first silence of the day.

When the vote was announced there was a repetition of the tumultuous scenes which had characterized the convention from the start. Roosevelt's face was wreathed with a smile. The fact was not overlooked that no delegates in the old guard had moved to make the selection of Roosevelt unanimous. The colonel then made his speech. He was in fine voice and spoke slowly and distinctly. His reference to Mr. Taft as "an able, upright and distinguished president" was very heartily received. He cracked up the legislature at Albany and Governor Hughes, and most of these references were greeted by the old guard with grins.

Then came the new departures and the establishing of the record that Colonel Roosevelt has succeeded to the leadership of the Republican party in the state and leadership of Thurlof Weed, of Roscoe Conkling and Thomas C. Platt. But, unlike Weed, Conkling and Platt, Colonel Roosevelt started his leadership with no apparent desire to conciliate his foes. No member of the old guard was permitted to offer a resolution.

Roosevelt told his friends that he would certainly control the new state committee to be elected in the final hours. Already numerous changes are indicated. Roosevelt will be able to name his new state chairman, who Mr. Griscom says must be agreeable to the candidate for governor. The Roosevelt platform, which practically embodied his speech in the convention, was read to the platform committee last night by O. T. Bannard and after it had been discussed, William Barnes, jr., who was not displaced from the committee by Roosevelt, submitted his own platform. After a long conference with Roosevelt and his adherents, Senator Root was selected to be permanent chairman of the convention.

name of our common welfare. Lincoln appealed to all citizens when he said at Indianapolis, in 1861, "Not with politicians, not with presidents, not with office-seekers, but with you is the question: 'Shall the Union and the liberty of the people be preserved?'"

Progressive Republicanism.

"The Emancipation Proclamation was progressive Republicanism; the Homestead Act was progressive Republicanism; the resumption of specie payments was progressive Republicanism."

"Progressive Republicanism established the Department of Commerce and Labor, wrote the railway rate law, the pure food law, the meat inspection law, the irrigation law, the employers' liability law, the safety appliance law—all opposed covertly or openly by the reactionaries of both parties."

"Progressive Republicanism forced a reluctant congress to break ground for the foundation for the greatest of all business reforms, the Tariff Commission."

"These reforms were for the common good and thus they won the support of men of other parties who cared for the country's welfare than for a partisan victory."

"Most men and women of all parties want equally to do right; most of us have the same needs and desires. So let us consider what is best for our homes and for our country, not as foes, but as friends, wishing to help one another."

"Several causes have raised the cost of living—some causes that legislation cannot remedy. But there are other causes which legislation can remedy. Railway rates based on over-capitalization is one cause. Our century-old policy of giving away the people's natural resources, thus increasing our taxes by destroying this source of income, is another cause. Exorbitant tariff rates, far beyond the limits of protection, is another cause. In each of these the moral phase is the vital thing. Always moral wrong works economic outrage."

Revenue-Only Fallacies.

"Our opponents say that a tariff-for-revenue-only is the best thing for us. But that is a tariff highest on articles which everybody in this country consumes and which nobody in this country can produce. Does anybody want a tariff on coffee? That is what a revenue-only tariff means."

"A little tea is grown in South Carolina. A Democratic senator fought desperately to put a duty on tea. If you favor a revenue-only tariff you favor a tariff on tea and on every other article we consume and cannot produce. Is that good sense?"

"The greatest cost in producing any manufactured article is the cost of labor. Most foreign labor gets smaller wages than our labor. A revenue-only tariff would put our labor on a wage equality with foreign labor. Is that just to labor?"

Protection Is General.

"Every modern nation except the United Kingdom has a protective tariff. A revenue-only tariff would permit foreign producers to come into our markets by paying only a revenue duty, while we could get into their markets only by paying a protective duty. Is that good business?"

"I am a protectionist but not an extortionist. I am an Abraham Lincoln protectionist. Abraham Lincoln said: 'If we could have a moderate, carefully adjusted protective tariff, so far acquiesced in as not to be a subject of perpetual strife, squabbles, changes and uncertainties, it would be better for us.'"

"That is the Abraham Lincoln doctrine of protection; and I follow where Lincoln led. So I am a protectionist—not a free trader on the one hand nor an extortionist on the other, but a protectionist of the Abraham Lincoln school. I am for a tariff based on facts for the honest protection of all American industry; not for a tariff based on bargains for the unjust profit of mighty interests."

"Log-Rolling" Must Stop.

"Log-rolling" legislation must stop. Lobby legislation must stop. And at last we have begun a method that will stop them. The leaders of both parties at first opposed it. Democratic senators and congressmen still resist it. Only truth and the people's need have forced into law the beginning of that reform which will destroy the "log-rolling," lobby-fixing methods of tariff making—the reform of a tariff commission."

"Politician candidates running for office as Democrats ask your support because of the wrongs of the Aldrich tariff law; but did Democratic senators and congressmen do any fighting to prevent those wrongs?"

"Why did Democratic senators not only do no real fighting themselves, but actually proposed to prevent all fighting and vote on the whole bill when the battle was young. If Democratic senators believed in a revenue-only tariff, why did they not present a revenue-only tariff bill and vote for it?"

There is the record, and no campaign hypocrisy can wipe out a word of it.

"I condemn equally the same kind of Republicans and Democrats, but this I say—that if certain Republican public men have wronged you, most Democratic public men have both wronged you and betrayed you, and these latter absolutely control the Democratic minority in both house and senate."

"Do you ask how the people can discriminate among these men? Go to the Record and find your answer—the Record reveals those who were fighting for the common good and those who were merely maneuvering for partisan and personal advantage."

Commission Must Come.

"A tariff commission would have made all this battling, all this confusion, unnecessary and these wrongs impossible. A tariff commission would have taken tariff making out of politics; a tariff commission will yet take tariff making out of politics."

"So at last we have laid the foundation for a tariff commission. We must continue our fight until the present temporary powerless tariff board is made into a genuine, permanent, nonpartisan tariff commission with full powers and duties fixed in the law itself."

"Independent revision of schedules would abolish dishonest 'log-rolling' bargains and make each schedule accurate and just; and this is the second great reform in tariff methods which we propose to enact. The first reform, a genuine, nonpartisan tariff commission, makes this second reform, the independent revision of schedules separately, necessary and certain."

Cannot Buy Indiana.

"It is said that great sums of money are coming into Indiana to defeat the Republican candidate for senator. I advise the sources of this corruption fund to save their cash. Indiana's voters cannot be bought before election, and Indiana's legislature cannot be bought either before or after election. Let the interests who are parting with their currency, including the tobacco trust, put that in their pipes and smoke it."

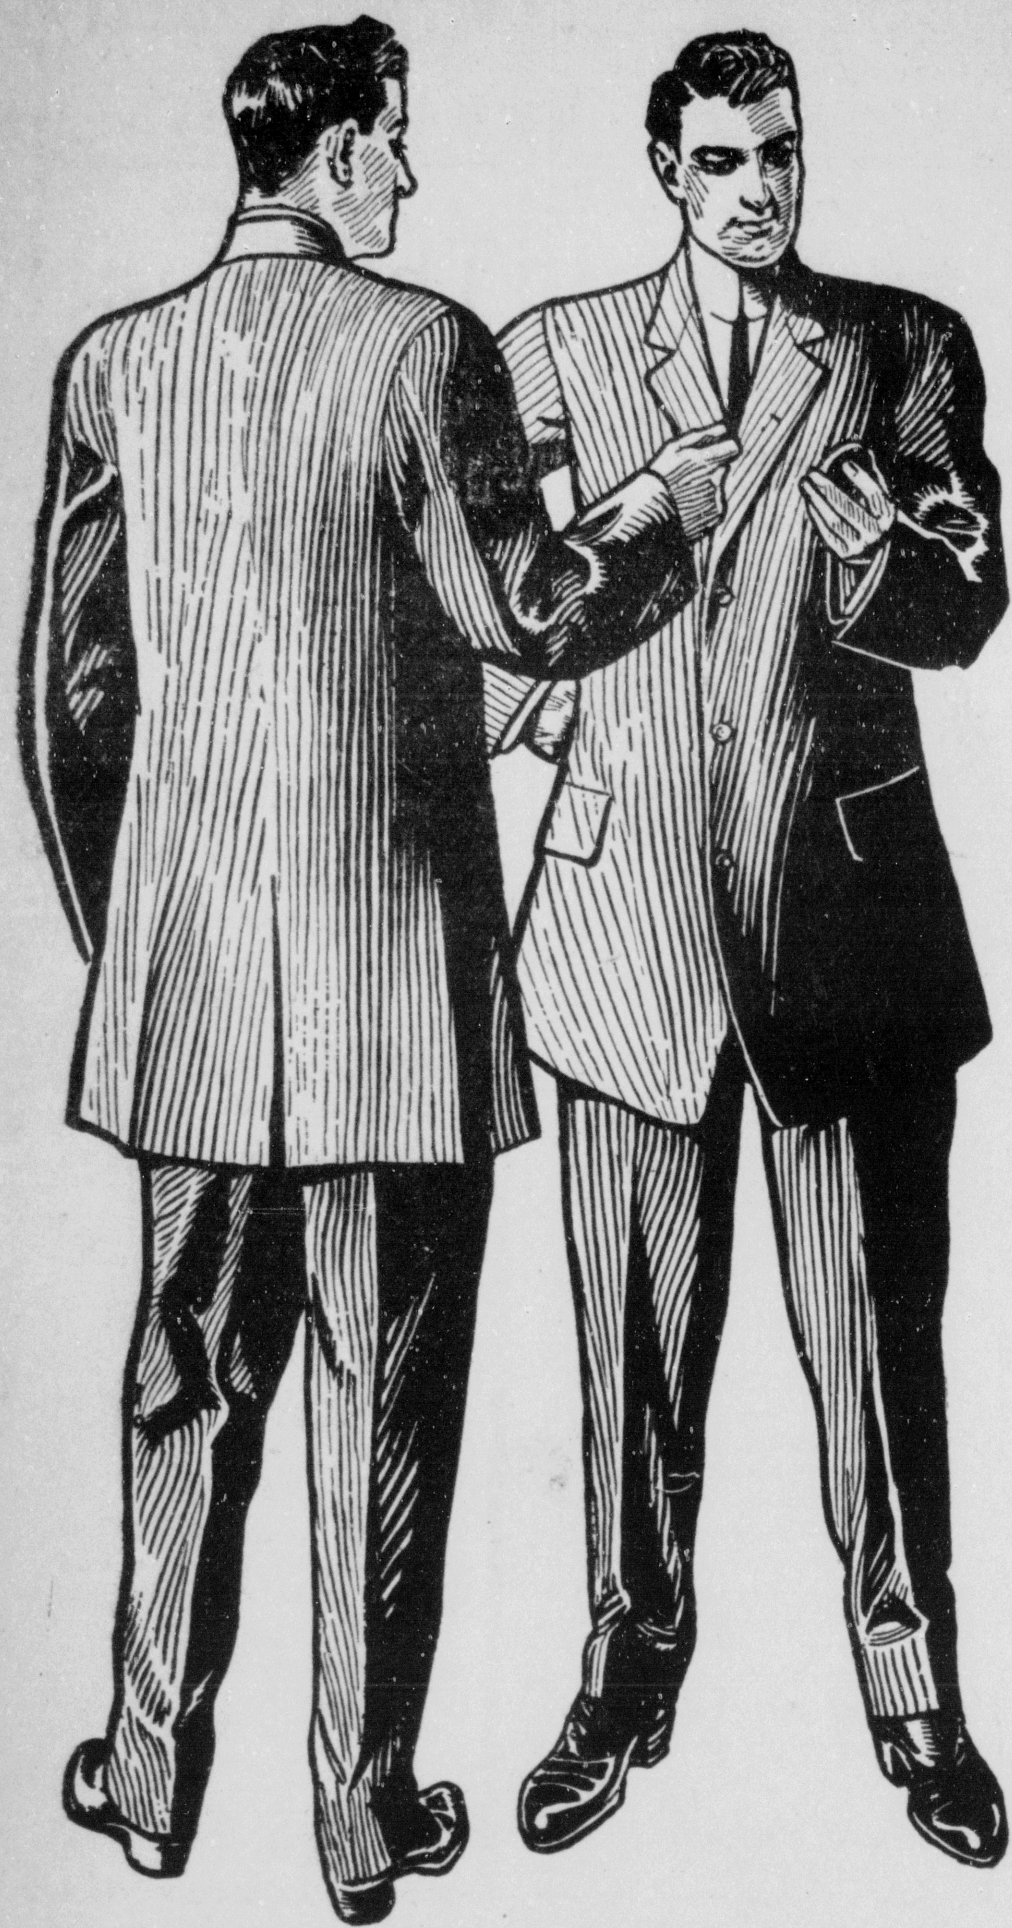

"Indiana in 1911 will not be like Illinois of 1909."

"I ask all voters to be citizens first and partisans afterwards."

"Whether approved by the mighty or not, we will continue the conflict for the common good."

Col. Roosevelt, it is reported, had a "bully time" at Saratoga.

In Indianapolis last night Senator Beveridge opened the fall campaign with a brilliant and courageous keynote speech and one which the party can afford to stand back of. It was in line with his speech before the state convention and the platform adopted then.

It was a clean and forceful presentation of the issues of the campaign and the doctrines and record of progressive Republicanism. He made a strong appeal directly to the people to stand by the party that represents their interests and hopes. He referred to the reports that some of the big trusts were pouring money into the state in an effort to defeat him, but stated that he did not fear to trust the honesty of Indiana voters or the legislature. A part of the speech appears in this issue of The Republican and should be read carefully.

J. A. Cox, of Crothersville, who it is probable will be the Republican nominee for prosecutor, is a man who has the ability and honesty to fill that important office well.

County Fair.

The September social committee of the Country Club will entertain with a county fair Friday evening at the club house. THE SPIRIT OF LOVE.

You will find as you look back upon your life that the moments that stand out are the moments when you have done things in a spirit of love. As memory scans the past, above and beyond all the transitory pleasures of life there leap forward these supreme hours when you have been enabled to do unnoticed kindnesses to those round about you, things too trifling to speak about, but which you feel have entered into your eternal life.

—Henry Drummond.

Thomson's "Glove Fitting" Corsets

The name "Glove-Fitting" was given to these corsets when the first ones were made more than three generations ago. How long would the garments have maintained their popularity if they had failed to personify the name? Would the sale of a few hundreds during the first year back in the 'fifties have grown to several millions of today, except by virtue of Sterling worth in the goods?

POLITICAL BRIEFS

Does the voter prefer Rooseveltism or the weak-kneedism of Kern?

Speaking dates have not yet been assigned to the "Mysterious Eight."

The Evansville Press, a Democratic newspaper, has come out for Senator Beveridge for re-election.

Charley Slates refused to run on the Democratic ticket for joint representative in Martin and Orange counties.

Uncle Ben Johnson, of Shoals, was drafted.

John W. Kern doesn't love bribery any more than Roosevelt does. But when it comes to action in a matter involving bribery, Roosevelt acts and Kern crawfishes.

Eugene Debs says Roosevelt is "dishonest." The Democratic governor of Indiana has said the same thing in a roundabout way. But the people, who gave Roosevelt a vote of confidence in 1904, electing him president by more than 2,600,000 plurality, cannot be influenced to any great extent by either Marshall or Debs. The people still prefer Roosevelt to Haskell, Lorimer, Barnes, Woodruff or Taggart.

What He Doubted.

Scribbles—Quiller tells me he has a great mind to write a book. Dribbles—I don't believe it. Scribbles—Don't believe what—that he can write a book? Dribbles—Oh, he may be able to write a book, but I don't believe he has a great mind.—Chicago News.

A Thoughtful Conclusion.

"Pa," said Willie thoughtfully, "I think I know what the minister meant when he said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"

"Yes," replied his pa. "Well, what did he mean?"

"Castor oil."

UNCLE REMUS TO HAVE MEMORIAL

Atlanta Home of Joel Chandler Harris to Be Purchased to Perpetuate Fame of Southern Negro's Greatest Delineator.

Lasting Juvenile Virtues of "Br'er Rabbit," "Br'er Fox" and the Wonderful "Tar Baby" to Be Extolled by Roosevelt.

By J. A. EDGERTON.

NOW it is the Uncle Remus memorial. A society in Atlanta designs purchasing the home of Joel Chandler Harris, "The Sign of the Wren's Nest," and preserving it for the public. To aid in raising the $25,000 necessary for the purpose former President Roosevelt speaks at Atlanta on Oct. 8.

Uncle Remus is known of all boys and girls and some grownups. In fact, I wouldn't give much for a grownup who did not know him. He has been published in all English speaking lands and translated into twenty-seven languages. When an author is translated into a foreign language he is great, so Uncle Remus is twenty-seven times great.

Yet the first one of the sketches, the immortal "Br'er Rabbit and the Tar Baby," was written to fill space in the Atlanta Constitution. Sam Small had been writing a column called "Old Si," and when this stopped temporarily for some reason there was a public demand for its continuance. Harris was then writing paragraphs and doing state exchanges. Colonel Evan P. Howell, the editor of the paper, asked Joe to fill in till Small got back.

"Tar Baby" Still Living.

But Small never came back—not in that column. Uncle Remus caught on in a day. "Old Si"—peace to his ashes—died when the "Tar Baby" was born. He may have been an entertaining old body, but so far as the future will ever know he served but one purpose—that of indirectly and unintentionally bringing Uncle Remus into being.

Joel Chandler Harris was not a beauty—except in his soul. He was short and rotund, red headed, freckled, abnormally shy, stuttered in the presence of strangers, couldn't make a speech, was bored by people who tried to talk to him about his work and lived his whole life literally between his home and office. No man perhaps was ever known to so few people personally who was known to so many through his printed word. He was offered positions, editorships of important magazines, but nothing could lure him from his home. He took life as a joke, refused to have worries, said he had not been mad in twenty years and regarded his work not as a task, but a recreation. He lived through the civil war and wrote about it, yet showed no trace of bitterness and gave as much delight to his northern as his southern readers.

No man ever did more to interpret the south, perhaps, and yet no man was ever less provincial. He loved children, roses, birds and dumb creatures. These he made brothers, like St. Francis of Assisi, and through that fraternity they have become brothers to his millions of readers.

And many a moon
Will wax and wane
Before we see
His like again.

The rabbit will hide
As he always hid,
And the fox will do
As he always did.

But who can tell us
What they say
Since Uncle Remus
Has passed away?

Born in Br'er Patch.

To begin at the beginning, as well regulated and proper biographies should. Joel Chandler Harris was born in 1848 in a Georgia brer patch. He says so himself. He went to school a few terms in an academy and the rest of the time in a printing office. Candor compels the statement that he did not come from one of the first families. His people were so poor that he had to go to work at the age of twelve.

A nearby planter had started a paper called the Countryman. It was published twenty miles from anywhere, but followed the ambitious lines of Addison's Spectator and Dr. Johnson's Rambler. It achieved success in a modest way and continued until swept away by Sherman's march to the sea. Joe Harris was printer's devil and at night imbibed the negro folklore stories, afterward to be heard of all men, or read books from the planter's well stocked library.

The kind of books the boy loved foreshadowed the man. For the most part they were the old classics and the Bible. From these and from his own inner nature he took on the simplicity and directness of his style. The book he loved most was "The Vicar of Wakefield," by Oliver Goldsmith.

Goldsmith His Model.

It was "The Vicar of Wakefield" that inspired him to his own earliest efforts. None of these is preserved, but in them he had the chief character constantly demolishing others by his contemptuous "Fudge," which was as much like Goldsmith as Goldsmith was like himself.

There is not a little similarity between the two writers. The same care free ways, the same love of the simple life, the same affection for humble folks, for children and for animals and the same humor abound in both. Mr. Harris even had the poetical gift, several songs and early verses of his dis-cle Remus had so enlivened them by stories and optimistic philosophy was more than worth the money.

Despite his shyness with strangers, Mr. Harris was an entertaining with his intimates as he was in his writings. "Snapbean Farm" is in the west end of Atlanta, and every morning he caught the same street car downtown. He was not the only one who caught it. Men would leave their breakfasts half eaten to ride on Joe Harris' car. And who can wonder? Think of being entertained each morning by a flesh and blood Uncle Remus!

This good cheer was carried into the office. There was a warm friendship between Harris and Henry W. Grady. Each morning before entering on the day's work Grady would have ten or fifteen minutes' test of wits, and Joel was not at all behind him in the quips that followed. The other members of the staff were drawn into the game, and the fun flew fast and furious. It was a mental tonic for the day, and some of the best Uncle Remus sketches were written under its stimulus.

Worked in Family Circle.

Toward the end of his life Mr. Harris did more and more of his work at home, finally severing his connection with the paper altogether. In an old rocking chair on the broad veranda or with his family about him of an evening he wrote, often continuing until far into the night. Sometimes he worked with a child at either elbow. He was not disturbed by their prattle and perhaps even wore their laughter into his tales that were to bring laughter to the lips of millions of children all round the earth.

Aunt Remus fumbled something of her husband's philosophy. When asked if she was willing to sell the home as a memorial, her reply was that she would not should she live always, but that not being the case, she wanted it preserved just as Mr. Harris had left it.

One morning Andrew Carnegie called at "The Sign of the Wren's Nest," wrens had built a nest in the mail box before the cottage. Harris was out early to intercept the mail carrier and admonish him not to disturb the new home of the birds. He even had another mail box put up and wrote an editorial for the Constitution describing the incident. The title of it was "The Sign of the Wren's Nest," and it made such an impression on the fancy of the public that the name stuck.

JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS AND HIS ATLANTA HOME, WHICH IS TO FORM A MONUMENT TO HIS WORK AND CHARACTER.

"Snapbean Farm" was celebrated in other ways. It was said that outside the domain of the professional florists it had the most beautiful rose garden in Atlanta. There at early morn was heard the snip of Uncle Remus' shears. Yet the children who flocked to the place from all about were welcome to pluck roses by the handful so long as they did no injury to the vines.

There were six children in the Harris household, which always seemed to me an ideal number. While the father was alive he saw one of his sons managing editor of the Constitution and another city editor. One of them is now running the Uncle Remus Magazine, while the author started a year or two before his death.

Wife a Canadian.

The mother, who loves to be called Aunt Remus, is a Canadian by birth. When Joel was sticking type and writing heavy editorials on the Savannah News she and her father made a trip south and stopped at the hotel where the young freckled faced printer-editor made his home. Their marriage followed. In 1877 an epidemic scare sent them to Atlanta with thousands of other fugitives, and there they made their new home.

A story is told of those days which is good enough to be true, whether it is or not. When Harris asked for his bill at the hotel where he and his little brood stopped with scores of other fugitives the landlord would not take a cent, saying that Joel had canceled the bill by the good cheer he had dispensed. When the fugitives had arrived they were a woebegone lot, but the manner in which the future Uncle Remus so far overcame his shyness as to saunter down the walk and say, "Howdy?" The two short and gray men, both wearing slouch hats, looked like a couple of jovial farmers. When President Roosevelt went to Atlanta he sent word that Mr. Harris must be invited, and he would not let Uncle Remus slip away, as he tried to do, until he had ridden about the city with Mrs. Roosevelt and listened to a eulogy of himself from the president's own lips.

Mr. Harris blushed violently through it all, but evidently was not displeased, as he afterward accepted an invitation to visit the White House, much to the delight of the small Roosevelts.

Children Mourn His Death.

Joel Chandler Harris died on July 3, 1908. Probably no man has ever been more sincerely mourned by the children of the world, than which there can be no higher tribute. He was a friend of peace and did more than any one can measure to heal the wounds between the two sections. He was a true son of the south, yet frankly loved Abraham Lincoln, a love that the south did not resent. He thought lightly of his own fame and to the end contended that he was not a literary man, but a journalist. Yet few writers have had more universal recognition during their own lifetime from critics and public alike.

As he was in his books so was he in his life. He did little deeds of kindness almost by stealth. One day it was helping a paralytic to get a federal appointment. Again it was writing a tender letter to a boy who had been crippled for life. Yet again it was giving his own coat to a tramp with the kindly lie that he had been saving it for that particular hobo for months.

A fitting epitaph for Joel Chandler Harris would have been Goldsmith's words:

Eternal sunshine settles on his head.

He deserved that, for he had given sunshine to a world.

SHIVELY TAKES ACTIVE CHARGE

Shifts Governor Marshall to a Secondary Place.

WILL KEYNOTE SOME HIMSELF

Democratic Senator to Set Campaign Pace according to His Own Ideas of National Issues—Fails to Agree With Marshall On Tariff and Will Have His Own Way in Marking Down the Issues.

Senator Shively continues to assert himself. At the last minute he refused to permit Governor Marshall to sound the Democratic keynote, and forced the state committee to put Governor Marshall's speech over from Sept. 29 to Oct. 3.

Senator Shively will start the game at Laporte, in the north end, Oct. 1. He will lay down the lines on which the campaign of Democrats must be made. He will attack the tariff commission idea, according to the announced program, and will demand a return to the low price and low wage era of which the people had a taste from 1892 to 1897.

John W. Kern will speak Oct. 1 at Evansville, at the southern extreme of the state. If he is to be judged by what he said at French Lick in his speech to Democratic editors, Mr. Kern will do his best to "second the effort" of Senator Shively. Owing to the fact that Shively and Kern are not on speaking terms, they are placed as far apart as possible and yet speak within the state bounds.

Governor Marshall's demand for an immediate revision of the tariff to a revenue only basis is likely to fall pretty flat, coming three days after the tariff keynote of Shively. The same Marshall demand fell flat in the Democratic state convention last spring, when the resolutions carefully ignored the Marshall demand.

It is to be noted that all three of the Democratic "notes" trail Beveridge and the Republican opener of Sept. 27.

FIVE HUNDRED IN LINE

Democrats in Parke County Desert Taggart By Battalions.

Dudley Straughn, Democratic assessor of Adams township, Parke county, declares in a letter to the Democratic Rockville Tribune that 500 Parke county Democrats are pledged to vote against Taggartism this year. Mr. Straughn says he is one of the 500. This word comes from the Fifth district, wherein lives Crawford Fairbanks, patron of Taggart. The Straughn statement is full of interest to Republicans, and carries encouragement to anti-Taggart Democrats everywhere. It is given as indicating what the anti-Taggart feeling is under conditions as they exist this campaign.

Sure!

Will the Republican state ticket be elected? It will. Will the legislature show a Republican majority on joint ballot? It will. Will Senator Beveridge be returned? He will. Why? Because this is a people's campaign, the Republican platform and character of the candidates appeal to the voters.—New Castle Courier.

BOOSTS

Fruit prices are looking up and the Indiana growers are smiling.

The quarries down Bloomington and Bedford way are having difficulty filling orders.

The work of picking a site for the new postoffice at Washington is now being done.

The erection of Lebanon's new court house is keeping every workman in that locality busy.

The new Diamond Flint Glass Works at Vincennes has begun work with more than 100 men to start.

A glance at the farm exhibits at the county and state fairs indicates that even nature is on the side of the farmer.

Louis H. Thatcher and Will L. Bennett recently opened an art brass plant at Rushville. They report business booming.

Real estate transfers occupy a prominent place in the columns of Indiana newspapers at present. This is explained by the considerations given.

The American Car and Foundry Company, which has two or three plants in Indiana, has just closed a contract for several thousand cars for one of the foreign governments.

Henry Jones, Liberty township, Shelby county, has just sold 500 head of hogs at prices which would make one's mouth water. The hogs looked like prosperity, as eight double deck stock cars were necessary in which to ship them.

A Fashion Chat on Utility Skirts

Furnished by Pictorial Review
West 39th Street, New York City

No wardrobe is complete without one or two extra skirts. Doubtless it may be a bit smarter to wear a one piece costume on some occasions, but there are many times during the course of a month that the extra skirt is an absolute necessity. Just at present the skirt question is really the fashion topic of the hour, and the proper skirt for the tailor-made coat suits and costumes is an anxious one, because of their severity of line. There is a large quantity of beautiful soft materials manufactured especially to suit draped tunics, gathered flounces, sheer fabrics to veil changeable taffeta and soft satins and brocade. The very narrow skirt is no longer a question—it is a fact in which tailor-mades are included.

Even if the skirt is laid in plaits at the top, it is kept within the prescribed limits by a band at knee depth, with the plaits falling free below. Sometimes this fullness is held in by a plain looking band that is really a slightly circular flounce, and again there are sometimes two of these circular flounces.

The plaited skirt is still seen, however, the plaits being stitched at the top, and excellent tailoring keeps them straight and close all the way down, retaining the slender, silhouette figure now so fashionable.

The band on plaited skirts affords a medium for trimming which often is only a bias strip of the goods, but in other cases takes the form of a broad band, satin fold or a wide band of lace—the choice being decided by the nature of the gown of which it is a part.

To sum up the situation in skirt styles, great latitude is permissible if they are a part of a dressy gown, but for tailored and utility wear they should be plain, not overly full, and straight in line from the waist line down.

The stout woman looks better in a skirt without the band, and, of course, the figure should always be considered before selecting a pattern.

It is almost impossible to keep up the names of the new colors and materials that flood the counters of smart shops. Color are soft, dull and really new tones of old and familiar shades while the fabrics are more than alluring in their softness of finish and will outwear many of the old-fashioned stiff materials of years gone by.

PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3598 was originally made up of a mixed suiting in a checked pattern. It consists of eight gores the front and back, being in panel style, and the three gores at each side are plaited and lengthened by a circular flounce with a band heading. The closing is at the left of the center front, under one of the plaits. It is an excellent design to wear with a coat or waist of the same material. Pattern sizes are for 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure, and the medium size requires 3 1/4 yards of 44 inch material.

PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3611 as here shown is made up of black broadcloth, having a band braided with black soutache and narrow folds of black satin edging the band, which is stitched at knee depth. The skirt consists of nine gores having an inverted plait at each seam stitched all the way down, and lengthened by a circular flounce. Pattern sizes are in 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure, and the medium size will require 3 1/4 yards of 44 inch material.

The last skirt shown represents PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3623 and would be exceedingly smart made up of dark blue nautic cloth, which is one of the new materials with rather a coarse basket weave, having irregular threads that give the fabric a rough surface. The skirt consists of seven gores plaited at the top and stitched down over the hips. Provision is made for regulation or shorter length. This skirt is a popular design for wear with medium length coat of same material or for general utility wear with shirt waists. Pattern sizes are in 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inch waist measure, the medium size requiring 5 1/4 yards of 44 inch material.

The price of these patterns, including cutting and construction guides are 15 cents each number.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

T. J. Terhune, a member of the State Board of Pardons, was here Tuesday evening on his way to his home in Linton. He has been a member of the state board for many years and is well known throughout the state.

Bartlett H. Campbell, receiver for the Union Land and Improvement Company, has filed a suit in the circuit court at Columbus against Peter E. Wills, of Elizabethtown, on a former judgment. He now asks for $1,800.

Mrs. Searle, of Nome, Alaska, who has been spending several days at Columbus, has returned here for a visit with her sister, Mrs. E. W. Donaldson, and family, before Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson leave for Kansas City to spend the winter with Mrs. Charles Harsh.

Mrs. Martin Harlow, of New Castle, who is seriously ill of typhoid fever, has been taken to the hospital in that city, where every care is being taken. Her head is being kept in ice and her body bathed in ice water to reduce her temperature.

Rev. and Mrs. Hayden H. Allen, who have been attending the Methodist conference at Evansville, returned to Seymour Tuesday evening. They will begin to prepare their house hold goods for shipping at once, although they will not leave the city until the latter part of next week. He will occupy the pulpit next Sunday as usual.

Mrs. Kate Hancock, who suffered a fractured rib Sunday evening when the buggy in which she was riding, overturned, is improving. She was with her niece, Miss Effie White, and the accident occurred on south Walnut street, the vehicle running into some materials which had been left in the street by a contractor who had recently moved a house.

Dr. F. A. Steele, pastor of the First church at Washington, who was made district superintendent of the Seymour district at the M. E. Conference, at Evansville, will move to this city for residence. Seymour is the center of the district and is the most favorable location for the district superintendent on account of the train and interurban service. From this city he can reach most any point in the district better than from any other city.

DIED.

ENGLAND.—Mrs. Ruth England, aged 83 years, died of pneumonia Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. David Keller, in Brownstown. The deceased was widely known, having lived in Jackson county her entire life. At an early age she became a member of the Methodist church and had always been a devout member of that denomination. Her husband, Joseph England, died a number of years ago.

The deceased leaves seven children, Mrs. Margaret Robbins, Mrs. Nan-nie Robbins, Mrs. George Perry, Mrs. Walter Johnson, Mrs. David Keller and Mrs. Lillie Nichols. She is also survived by one son, Henry England, of Illinois.

The funeral services held Thursday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. E. F. Schneider, pastor of the M. E. church, of Brownstown. Burial at Fairview cemetery.

Chris Runge died Sunday at the home of his son-in-law, Herman Dohlage, northwest of Surprise. The funeral was held at the home Tuesday forenoon. Burial at Spraytown. Mr. Runge was seventy-two years old and had lived near Surprise for many years. He had been married twice, his last wife and five children surviving him. The latter are Henry, John and Fred Runge, and Mrs. Herman Dohlage, near Surprise, and Mrs. Anna McKain, of Seymour. Mr. Runge was a member of the Waymansville Lutheran church.

Big Farm Sold.

E. C. Bollinger as agent, today closed a deal with William Titus, of Jennings county, for the 100 acre farm in Redding township, belonging to Rev. James A. Hawn, for $5,500.00 cash. Mr. Titus buys the farm for an investment and Charles Felter, of Jennings county, will move to it about Dec. 1 for future residence. There is nothing safer for an investment than Jackson county farm land.

PRINCIPLE.

Every opportunity needs to be looked at through the glass of principle. It may mean, apart from conscience, a chance of money, social position, power, but if it does not pass muster morally it also means loss. Conscience is a man's best protection.

INDIANA THE HUB.

Saturday Evening Post Says Interests of People Lie on Beveridge Side.

The Saturday Evening Post of Sept. 24, editorially, says: "The most important election to be held this fall is in Indiana, because nowhere else is the issue between popular and machine government quite so sharply drawn. Senator Beveridge broke with the organization of his own party when that became necessary in order faithfully to represent the people of his state. He fought for a tariff commission—to which President Taft now so largely pins hope of Republican success—when the Republican machine scoffed at the word. Aldrich's dictum was not sufficient reason with him for raising cotton duties which the farmers of Indiana would have to pay. For good reasons the Tobacco Trust does not like him and every 'big interest' animated by like ambitions would welcome his defeat. He has been well tried and well proved.

"Opposed to him is Mr. Kern, who is simply a Democrat, representing only the party organization—which includes Tammany in New York, Taggart in Indiana, Sullivan in Illinois, and some faithful protectionists of raw materials in the South.

"In a seesaw from one party to the other the cause of popular government merely marks time. It can never really advance unless faithful, courageous, able representatives of the people are supported. Unlike Wisconsin, for example, Indiana is not traditionally Republican. Party for party, the balance is about even. So the question is very clear-cut whether a majority of the people will recognize public service above the party label.

"Can any Indian who will candidly consider it doubt on which side his interest really lies? If he believes in government for the people, instead of government for 'the interests,' he knows from strenuous experience which side Senator Beveridge is on.

"To what, that is one-half so convincing as Beveridge's record, can the organization that is personified in Mr. Kern point?"

Patent Sustained by U. S. Circuit Court, July 5, 1905. Patent Sustained by U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, March 6, 1906.

Beware of Imitations and unscrupulous people who claim to have a stove like or just as good as the Florence. Do not be deceived by such false claims and find it out when too late.

Examine the Florence carefully before you buy.

NO SMOKE! NO SOOT! NO DIRT! NO CLINKERS!
EVERYTHING IS CONSUMED.

At the End of a Season's Use With Soft Coal, There Will Be No Soot in the Pipe or Flue

THE ZENITH OF STOVE PERFECTION.

The only jointless leg bottom and base with full radiation and large ash pan that is on the market or has ever been made in the history of the stove industry.

The jointless leg bottom and base makes the stove air-tight below the grate, which is the only true fire keeping principle.

It will be as good a fire keeper twenty years hence as it is today.

The Hot Blast Air-Tight Florence will heat twice the space that can be heated by any other stove on earth at one-half the cost.

The only perfect floor heater that is or has ever been made.

All features are patented and no stove manufacturer, dealer or user can copy or use same for seventeen years from date of patent without incurring liability for an action for damages.

If the FLORENCE is operated according to directions:

The No. 21 will heat 1 small room all winter with 2 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 49 or No. 23 will heat 2 or 3 small rooms all winter with 2½ tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 51 or No. 25 will heat 3 or 4 rooms all winter with 3 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 53 or No. 27 will heat 5 rooms all winter with 4 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 55 will heat a large store or school room with 6 tons of slack or lump coal. For a church, less coal will be required.

Will burn a ton less of hard coal than a hard coal Base Burner of the same size and heat twice the space.

POINDEXTER IS MAN IN THIRD

Republicans Choose Jeffersonville Man to Lead.

RESOLUTIONS MEAN HARMONY

Taft Endorsed, Tariff Commission Urged, Beveridge Strongly Upheld, and Dollar a Day Pensions Demanded By the Platform—Resolutions Will Bear Study By All Voters.

The Third district Republican resolutions are worth the thoughtful study of every voter in Indiana. Here are the resolutions adopted at Jeffersonville, September 23, when Judge H. C. Poindexter, of Jeffersonville, was nominated for congress:

"We, the Republicans of the Third Congressional District, in convention assembled, declare our reaffirmation of the principles of the Republican party,—those principles which have made and kept the nation great, those principles which guided Abraham Lincoln as president during the troublous years from 1861 to 1865, those principles that have guided all his Republican successors in office.

"President Taft is wise, prudent and conservative. He stands for the supremacy of the law and the integrity of the courts. He has succeeded in causing to be enacted into law more important measures in the same length of time than any president in our history, and we predict that his administration will mark a most prosperous and progressive era in the nation's development.

"We believe in a protective tariff, measured by the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad. This is fair to American manufacturers; less than this is unjust to American laborers; more is unjust to American consumers. That difference should be ascertained with the utmost speed and effective legislation enacted accordingly. We demand the creation of a permanent, genuine, non-partisan tariff commission, with powers and definite duties fixed in the law itself, and we most heartily approve the appropriation made by congress to enable the president of the United States to thoroughly inquire into industrial conditions at home and abroad.

"We favor just and liberal pensions to all deserving soldiers and to the widows and orphans of those who are dead. Every general pension law now on the statute books was placed there by a Republican congress. We believe the time has come for the enactment of what is known as a 'dollar-a-day' pension law for the relief of the necessities of honorably discharged civil war veterans.

"The State Republican ticket is composed of clean, able and conscientious gentlemen, men of character and ability, with a heart and purpose to loyally care for the state and its great interests. Our state ticket deserves and will receive our enthusiastic support at the polls.

"The Republicans of this district are proud to stand by Albert J. Beveridge. He is our leader; he is not only an honor to his state, he is an asset of the nation; he knows the spirit and duty of the hour; he is the sincere advocate of justice and he fights for human rights. We approve and applaud his splendid record, covering almost a dozen years of ceaseless, consistent, intelligent and honest fighting for all the people of his state and all the people of his country.

"Therefore the Republicans of the Third Congressional District are a unit in demanding that the man who shall succeed himself in the senate of the United States shall be this man who votes and fights only for the people's rights,—the Honorable Albert J. Beveridge."

BATT AGAINST BRYAN.

Lamb Democrat Says Commoner Will Injure the Taggart Cause

Judge C. M. Batt of Terre Haute, a Lamb Democrat of the talkative school, lets it be known that he is not a little bit in accord with the campaign managers who have called W. J. Bryan to speak in Indiana for the Democratic party cause. Judge Batt says:

"I must confess the advent of Bryan since he bolted the head of the state ticket will meet with distinct disfavor among many Democrats."

"I, myself, have no use for a bolter and for him to come into Indiana as a protagonist in the play this year will look bad to those who believe Democratic victory can be achieved only with united, hard work and loyalty all through.

"His act was a foolish one, and much as I deplore it, the effect cannot but be felt in Indiana if he poses here as a Democratic champion. I cannot see that he has done much good in Indiana on his campaign visits. No doubt it was a mistake to bring him into the campaign here."

Sterling R. Holt is another prominent Democrat who says, "right out," that he believes Mr. Bryan will "do more harm than good" for the Democratic bosses.

PERSONAL MENTION

Steve Fleming joins Crawford Fairbanks in saying he is for John Kern.

Labor men find Tom Brolley fought labor measures in 1909 legislature. Brolley will be opposed for state statistician on this score.

David Marks, Democratic state politician, resigns from Wabash county Democratic committee. "Tired of Taggartism."

College men have been digging into Charley Greatnouse's record as a college man. Facts sure to interest everybody when printed.

The Gary Republican Club has elected Major John McFadden president. The club has gone into the campaign with great energy and vim.

Jim Keegan, "business representative" for telephone corporations, attacks Beveridge child labor bill in a Democratic bureau circular. Keegan is a Democratic candidate, and poses as a labor leader.

Alfred E. Zehring, Democratic candidate for joint senator in Miami and Howard counties, repudiates Democratic state platform, and is being read out of the Taggart organization by Democratic press.

The

TRIUMPH Air Blast

Is the latest and greatest invention for producing heat from soft coal. Practically all fuel can be turned into heat and utilized in the room—no waste of gases, no waste of soot, no waste by having ashes banked against the fire pot. When we say we can save you one-third of your fuel bill is putting it mildly. The construction of the fire pot is so arranged that its radiation surface is double that of any other soft coal stove made. It is the only fire pot where it is absolutely impossible for ashes to bank against; the only fire pot where hot air has a complete circulation from top to bottom. The perfect fitting ash pit door, the ball bearing grate, the solid cast body are all features worth your while to consider in buying a stove. We will be glad to demonstrate the construction of the Triumph Air Blast and prove up what we say.
